DELIVERING BETTER.

The latest vehicle to bear Rainbow Haulage's signature livery is a brand new FUSO 6x4 HD FV2547, which works alongside seven other FUSO units hauling aggregate, metal and other bulk materials from the company's Avondale base to civic-construction sites all across Auckland.

Managing director Colin Dunn says he and his staff have been so impressed that he'll continue to buy FUSO trucks as he upgrades his 22-strong fleet.

"We know the product inside out; our drivers like them and the team at Keith Andrews are great to deal with," says Colin. "When I was looking to buy, a rep from another manufacturer came in and I asked my driver which he'd prefer and, after having a look at both trucks, he chose the HD."

Fitted with a 10m3 Roc-Tuff steel tip body and 18m3 four-axle trailer, the unit hauls up to 44 tonne loads with the 346kW engine providing plenty of pulling power.

Colin says that the 12-speed AMT and user-friendly cab were two key aspects that won over his driver.

"We work from Silverdale through to Pokeno and the AMT makes navigating throughout the city a lot easier. The cab is also very comfortable and well laid out," he says. "My drivers can clock up to 400km behind the wheel on any given day and it makes it a lot easier on their bodies."
